

Mediterranean City-to-City Migration

Dialogue, Knowledge and Action

WHY?

More than half of the global population is residing in urban areas, which are foreseen to continue growing to 66% by 2050, mainly due to inflows of internal and international migrants. Cities can benefit from these people's potential by creating an enabling environment and taking migration into account in their local governance.

WHAT?

The overall aim of the project is to contribute to improved migration governance at local level in ten cities in Europe and in the Southern Mediterranean, with a specific focus on integration and inclusion, and migrants' access to rights and services.

HOW?

The project will facilitate mainstreaming migration into local planning through a three-fold approach. It will nurture dialogue, build an expert network, support knowledge gain and exchange, and engage in actions.

Project duration: 2015 – 2018

The network will principally consist of 10 partner cities in Europe and the Southern Mediterranean region. A number of cities are invited to join as associates.
